Introduction -

The real answer depends on the following after analysis -

- The type of site (i.e., new site or an existing site)
- How competitive the keywords and industry are?
- The popularity of the site (i.e., household name versus a brand that is trying to get established).
- What you are trying to get ranked for (i.e. voice search, answer box, etc.).
- Where the site is ranking for your targeted keywords.

Outgoing relevant links to authoritative sites are considered in the algorithms and do have a positive impact on rankings.

We completed the experiment on the 21st Feb 2016. Exactly 5 months after its initiation. The data we accumulated is substantial and one of the challenges we had was to convey it in a way that clearly showed the rate of success. We have decided to do so with two separate graphs for each key phrase.

Heat Map Graphs:

This first graph is a heat map generated using the raw data of ranking results from every single day of the test. A green square denotes that the site is in the expected position in the Google SERPS for the key phrase. A red or red gradient denotes a site is in the wrong half. The further away it is from the mid-point, the darker red the square is.

Enge told Gary that when he removed a ton of low quality pages from a client's site, their traffic didn't change much, their indexed pages did drop, but their conversions and sales jumped significantly. So even though the client removed maybe 50% of their pages, their sales and conversions increased drastically.

So Gary Illyes responded to that saying that when you have fewer but better quality pages than it will result in better quality traffic from Google.

Here is what he said:

What are SEO backlinks examples?

Backlinks are links from a page on one website to another. If someone links to your site, then you have a backlink from them. If you link to another website, then they have a backlink from you. For example, these words link to YouTube, so they now have a backlink from us.

Study - Outgoing Links Used As Ranking Signal

February 21, 2016 by Shai Aharony • SEO Guru; prodding Google's algorithms just for fun.

There are various myths and fables within the online marketing community. The vast majority of which are unsubstantiated, well as negative effect on your website's authority and in turn its ranking. What is less obvious and less tested is the effect that outgoing links can have.

I'm repeatedly astonished at the numerous times we come across the absurd and old fashioned belief that Pagerank should be religiously kept within the site and that any outgoing links are 'diluting' your site's authority.

Reboot Online has a small team of talented journalists that produce quality studies, tests and surveys. However, at the outreach stage of the campaign, which, in essence is all about bringing this content to the attention of influencers, we are finding that site owners are still reluctant to link out to any external sources.

Activate Windows
Go to Settings to activate Windows.

How We Did It:

The idea is simple. We purchased 10 brand new domains and included 6 mentions of the main term which we would attempt to rank for [Phylandocic]. In each article, we mentioned 2 very high authoritative, related websites. On 5 of the websites, mentions are in plain text whilst on the other 5 sites, they are hyperlinked.

The 10 domains were all registered at the same time to remove any domain age influence. All domains contained 10 random but pronounceable characters and all domains were confirmed as having 0 search volume produced in Google. All sites were hosted on the same host to minimise any hosting related bias.

2. bistuluded.co.uk - Outgoing Links ←
3. chotoilame.co.uk - No Outgoing Links ←
4. dyeatimide.co.uk - Outgoing Links ←
5. edikatstic.co.uk - No Outgoing Links ←
6. foppostler.co.uk - Outgoing Links ←
7. gamorcesed.co.uk - No Outgoing Links ←
8. heabasumel.co.uk - Outgoing Links ←
9. iramebleta.co.uk - No Outgoing Links ←
10. jundbaramn.co.uk - Outgoing Links ←

1. All domains had all robots blocked until content was ready and published. This ensures that the domains are not crawled by Google at substantially differing times. We fetched each one in Google in sequence. Linked, not linked, linked etc to further reduce any bias.
2. All sites had non duplicated but similar title tag structure
3. Once the sites were ready, we continued in a zigzag sequence, removing the robots restrictions and fetched through Google Web Master tools ensuring the first site to get indexed was a non-linked version and then alternating afterwards until all 10 sites were indexed. We continued with the next site once the previous had been indexed and

Note that none of these sites have any incoming links which would suggest both these updates may be content related.

Using site speed in web search ranking

Friday, April 09, 2010

Webmaster Level: All

You may have heard that here at Google we're obsessed with speed, in our products and on the web. As part of that effort, today we're including a new signal in our search ranking algorithms: site speed. Site speed reflects how quickly a website responds to web requests.

Speeding up websites is important – not just to site owners, but to all Internet users. Faster sites create happy users and we've seen in our internal studies that when a site responds slowly, visitors spend less time there. But faster sites don't just improve user experience; recent data shows that improving site speed also reduces operating costs. Like us, our users place a lot of value in speed – that's why we've decided to take site speed into account in our search rankings. We use a variety of sources to determine the speed of a site relative to other sites.

If you are a site owner, webmaster or a web author, here are some free tools that you can use to evaluate the speed of your site:
